JUMBO MUST GO.

The City Council Has Issued Its Ediet-"Fumbo Must Be Sold."

Jumbo has to go. The council has decided that the elephant in the shape of a street roller, which has encumbered the streets of Topeka for ten years, must be Record.

Congressman Charles Curtis is badly the fanatics on any question always sold. The council has come to the same conclusion many times before, but they Seventh congressional district in behalf them are not so particular whether they have at last "become desperate" and decided that the roller must go, the price being a secondary matter.

It was in the boom days of Topeka when Jumbo was bought, for the ostensible purpose of rolling the streets. Its weight is thirteen and a half tons, or 27,000 pounds, and it cost the city $5,500. The money might as well have been thrown into the river and the city would have derived as much benefit as it has

from the big roller.

Jumbo would not roll when the ground was at all uneven. He would drop into a rut and stay there until enough men could be secured to help him out. Jum-bo was finally shelved by the city though the Barber Asphalt company borrowed the roller to roll the new pavements which they were then putting down. Now if the city can realize $2,000 from their $5,500 investment in the roller they will sell it and some other city can have an opportunity to find just how useless this monster really is.

DOG CATCHER FINED.

That's What Dog Catcher Miller was Fined -The Case Will Be Appealed.

The principal case in police court this morning was the one in which J. R. Miller, the city dog catcher, was charged with having broken into the barn of John Harmon and stolen a dog. The dog, Harmon said in his evidence, was not his property, but the property of a man named Joe Warren, who lives in the country. Warren had brought the dog into town to leave it a few days, and dog into town to leave it a few days, and it was locked in the barn of Harmon, the former owner. Miller heard the dog in the barn, and, breaking off a board, went in and took the dog. Harmon then had him arrested for petit larceny, saying the dog was only worth about $15, although Warran had noid $45 for it. The judge Warren had poid $45 for it. The judge held that the defendant was guilty and fined him $25. Joe Reed was the attor-ney for Miller, and immediately asked

B. H. Carr is a young man who has a bad habit of getting into police court. He was drunk this time, and admitted that he had been in court but a short time before, The judge gave him a fatherly lecture and a $5 fine, which he will work out.

The case against F. Monroe who, it is alleged, was one of those who sometimes pays court to the liquor that spoils the tit of a man's hat, was dismissed.
